

Lace Fruit Doily

Brighten your table with a lace fruit doily!
Colorful lace fruit wedges add a lively look to kitchen and dining room tables, and coffee tables, too!

Under a vase, holding the napkins and salt and pepper, or just decorating the center of a table, a lace fruit doily adds a lovely look to your decor.

Read on for project instructions for creating a fresh lace fruit doily for your home!

Supplies

Supplies Needed:

Water soluble stabilizer (WSS -- I prefer Sulky Ultra Solvy)

Paper towels

Fabric glue

Designs Used:

I used designs from the large and small sizes of the Fruit Wedge & Coaster

Steps To Complete

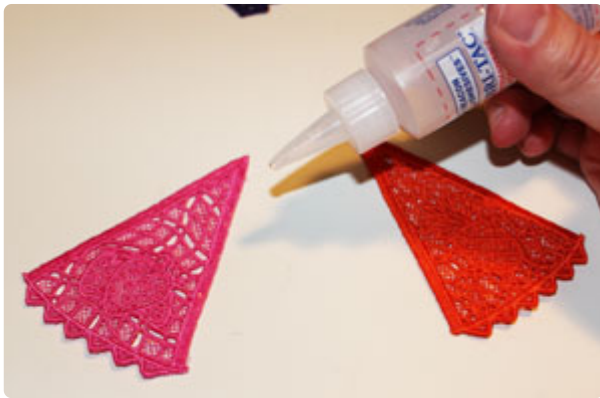

I embroidered the lace wedges by first hooping a piece of heavy weight water soluble stabilizer (I prefer Sulky Ultra Solvy). Click here to see how to embroider the lace.

Embroider a total of nine wedges.

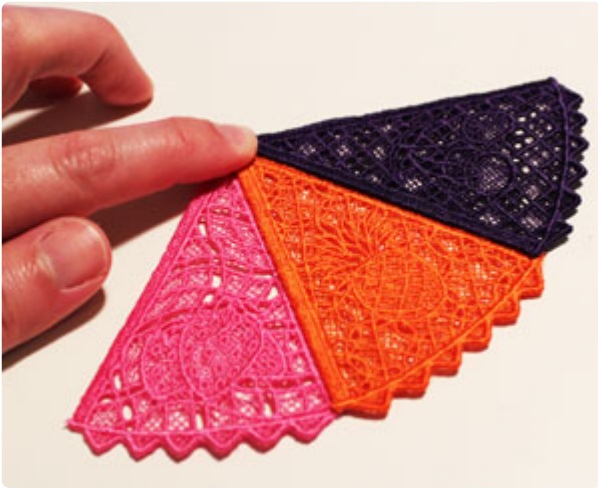

After the lace has been soaked and dried, arrange the lace how you want it.

Next, add fabric glue along the right side of the first wedge.

Overlap the left side of the second wedge over the right side of the first wedge (the width of the side border) and press in place.

Add glue along the right side of the second wedge, overlap the left side of the third wedge over the second wedge, and press in place.

Repeat this process for the next five wedges. To add the ninth and final wedge, add glue to the open sides of the end wedges, overlap the last wedge on top of them, and press in place.

You can also sew the wedges together. Follow the same sequence and overlapping as instructed above, but instead of gluing the pieces together, zigzag stitch the pieces along the side edges.
